

Dr. Isabella Ka`uakea Aiona Abbott Scholarship Fund

Scholarship Application- FALL 2019

POSTMARK DEADLINE: MAY 1ST, 2019

Nā Mamo O Mū`olea (NMOM) is a non-profit group whose mission is to “perpetuate traditional ahupua`a management of the Mū`olea ahupua`a; and to restore and maintain the area’s natural, cultural, scenic, historic and marine resources for the benefit, education and enjoyment of our community and future generations.” Our vision is to build capacity within our Hāna Community; therefore, providing scholarship funds to local individuals in need to fulfill educational degrees.

To honor the life, work and achievements of Hāna-born scientist and researcher Dr. Isabella Ka`uakea Aiona Abbott, NMOM created a scholarship to help post-high school graduates pursuing a career in Botany, Ethnobotany, Marine Science, Hawaiian Studies or related fields of study.

Dr. Abbott was the first native Hawaiian to receive a PH.D in science. She is a world-renowned algae (limu) taxonomist, and is the foremost expert on central-Pacific algae. To her credit she has numerous books, and has published more than 100 research papers. She is the leading expert on Hawaiian limu, and dedicated her life to protecting Hawaii’s reef ecosystems. As a Professor of Ethnobotany at UH Mānoa, she mentored and influenced many of her students to pursue careers in Ethnobotany and Marine Science. In 2005 “Tutu Abbott” as she is affectionately known was honored as a Living Treasure of Hawai’i. She passed away in 2010 at the age of 91. This year Nā Mamo o Mū`olea is honored and proud to commemorate Dr. Abbott's 100th Birthday.
